Alaskans, we need your help!

Restaurants, bars, package stores, breweries, distilleries, cider makers, and wineries want to better serve you and help put people back to work. The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has made recommendations to the Governor to allow for to-go alcohol sales from bars and restaurants, and curbside pick-up from all alcohol retailers. Furthermore, we want to deliver directly to you, so that you can avoid going to the store if possible. Please contact the Governor and ask him to create an emergency order to save our businesses and help you stay supplied during quarantine!

Our President and CEO Sarah Oates recently wrote an urgent call to action to Governor Dunleavy about this issue, which you can read here:

Important Notice:

While the ABC Board has taken recent action that will hopefully result in the temporary relaxation of specific alcohol laws, no curbside pickup or delivery of alcoholic beverages is currently permitted. Please see the below advisory notice that was sent to all licensees today by AMCO:
