New Weekly Unemployment Benefit for out-of-work Alaskans

This week, Governor Dunleavy approved an extension on unemployment benefits for out-of-work Alaskans. The $300/week benefit will be replacing the previous $600 increase to existing state unemployment insurance. According to the Alaska Department of Labor, it is unclear when Alaskans will see the benefit extension; however, it will be retroactive from the week ending in August 1. No additional action needs to be taken to receive the benefits.

Access to AK CARES Grants

Alaska CHARR is continuing to urge the Governor and the Legislature to dedicate grant money to hospitality businesses and to modify the current eligibility restrictions to AK CARES Grants so that the hundreds of hospitality businesses across the state who received more than $5,000 EIDL and/or PPP loans through the SBA may then have access to the $290 million in funds that were dedicated to small business relief. If this is important to you, please consider contacting your lawmakers.
