

Legislative Update

This Week In Juneau

With the 90th day of session coming this Sunday, the House has not yet taken up the FY24 budget for final debate and passage. The budget has been rolled to the calendar on Monday, April 17th and will most likely be taken up next week.

The Senate's Finance Subcommittees are working to complete their work and be finished with closing out by next week. The full Senate Finance committee will begin working on the FY24 budget with overviews by Legislative Finance and the Office of Management and Budget, awaiting the subcommittees closeout reports.

This week a bipartisan group of Alaska State Senators and Representatives sent a letter to the Alaska Congressional delegation encouraging them to address the delays with permitting for infrastructure and energy projects associated with the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act.
